FROM THE ARTIST
KATYA ROBERTS

"This Side of the Sun" has traveled halfway across the country and has taken on new layers and meanings in conjunction with world-wide events like the Covid pandemic and the war in Ukraine. The works on view speak to the cyclicity of our lives on this side of the sun. These cycles at times being marked by diseases, natural occurrences and wars, as well as new seasons, landscapes and horizons. Inspired by the writings in Ecclesiastes, visually, "This Side of the Sun" is a journey through perilous Icelandic landscapes. Throughout human history we have cycled through times of great difficulty and have shown both the terrible and wonderful sides of what it is to be human.
